

Forgive me interweb

Contributed by TuxInvader
Tuesday, 29 July 2008
Last Updated Tuesday, 29 July 2008

Forgive me interweb for I have had a life. It has been 6 months since my last blog post. I won't bore you with 6 months worth of back log... Last weekend Yany and I took a trip up to Bolton, to visit Andrea and Graeme (and err Zippy). Happy birthday Andrea! It's been a busy six months though. Simon and Vicky were married in March! Simon had two stag parties, the first one he dragged Geldert and I up mountains in Wales! I know. Don't ask me? I'm as confused as you are. Then for the second, he took all of his Leicester mates to the pub. I'm sure it was all some kind of sick joke! Still I got to be best man.... take that Liecester!:-p Ofcourse the funiest thing that's happened this year was Yany topping up her engine oil, and then driving around for three days without putting the cap back on..... Smoking! Anywho, a picture is worth a thousand words, so I've pulled some of the random events I have taken pictures of from my mobile phone and posted them in a gallery. So if you want to see some of what we've been upto for the last six months, take a look at these. Speak to you in December ;-)